Table XXIX.	Overview of catalog entries for possible HBW imports of Palatial date in Catalog I	143
Table XXX.	Overview of catalog entries for possible HBW imports of Postpalatial date in Catalog I	146
Table XXXI.	Late Bronze Age imports in Achaia (adapted from Murray 2013, 557-572)	191

Table XXXII.	Regional distribution of imports in Achaia prior to 1200 BC (after my Catalog II)	194
Table XXXIII.	Overview of catalog entries for ‘northern’ type spearheads in Catalog III	205
Table XXXIV.	Overview of catalog entries for Naue II type swords in Catalog III	207
Table XXXV.	Overview of different types of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools in Achaia during stage 1	211
Table XXXVI.	Overview of different types of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools in Achaia during stage 2	211
Table XXXVII.	Overview of Peschiera daggers and Scoglio del Tonno razors in Catalog III	212
Table XXXVIII.	Overview of catalog entries for Fontana di Papa type knives in Catalog III	214
Table XXXIX.	Overview of ‘Urnfield’ knives, headgear and greaves in Catalog III	215
Table XL.	Overview of different types of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments in Achaia	240
Table XLI.	Overview of catalog entries for fibulae in Catalog III	241
Table XLII.	Overview of catalog entries for long pins and ‘wheels’ in Catalog III	242
Table XLIII.	Overview of catalog entries for spiraled finger rings in Catalog III	243
Table XLIV.	Aegean-style pottery distributed over ceramic phases not discriminating between imports or local products (after Bettelli 2002, 59, Fig. 9; Van Wijngaarden 2002, 239, Tab. 17.2)	285
III. Charts
Chart I.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools over Catalog I, consisting of 104 entries	76
Chart II.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments over Catalog I, consisting of 104 entries	104
Chart III.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools over Catalog III, consisting of 72 entries	199
Chart IV.	Division of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools over different types of contexts in Achaia	216
Chart V.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments over Catalog III, consisting of 72 entries	237
Chart VI.	Division of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments over different types of contexts in Achaia	245
IV. Maps
Map I.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools over the Argolid. The size of the pie charts indicates the number of finds, whereas the dark and light colored portions of the pies represent two stages in network dynamics, based on the analysis of the various types (see Figure 36). Stage 1 runs from LH IIIB:2 – LH IIIC Middle and stage 2 from LH IIIC Late – SM (created by author)	76
Map II.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments over the Argolid. The size of	104

	the pie charts indicates the number of finds, whereas the dark and light colored portions of the pies represent two stages in network dynamics, based on the analysis of the various types (see Figure 36). Stage 1 runs from LH IIIB:2 – LH IIIC Middle and stage 2 from LH IIIC Late – SM (created by author)
Map III.	Sites with HBW in the Argolid (created by author)	142
Map IV.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ weapons and tools over Achaia. The size of the pie charts indicates the number of finds, whereas the dark and light colored portions of the pies represent the two stages in network dynamics based on the analysis of the various types (see Figure 57). Stage 1 runs from LH IIIB:2 – LH IIIC Early and stage 2 from LH IIIC Middle to Late (created by author)	210
Map V.	Distribution of ‘Urnfield’ ornaments over Achaia. The size of the pie charts indicates the number of finds, whereas the absence of dark colored pieces in the pie charts shows that ornaments only occur during stage 2 of the region’s network dynamics. For the ornaments (see Figure 57), stage 2 spans the LH IIIC Middle to SM periods (created by author)	240
Map VI.	Sites with possible HBW in Achaia (created by author)	257
 V. Graphs
Graph I.	Chronological development of locally produced HBW in the Tiryns Lower Citadel, Tiryns Lower Town North-East, and the area of the former Cult Center at Mycenae in the Postpalatial period. The data represented comes from Rahmstorf 2011 (Kilian 2007), Stockhammer 2008, and Romanos 2011a; 2011b	147
