TABLE OF CONTENTS

1 Introduction ..........................................................................................................................................................3

IDENTIFYING THE YOUNG OLD
2 Identifying the young old: Introducing a socio-demographic variable for country-comparative research .................................................................................................................................12
3 Age as an indicator for volunteering in later life ..............................................................................................28

THE YOUNG OLD AND PAID WORK
4 The influence of the welfare state on the number of young old persons ..............50
5 Paid work among Europeans aged 60 to 70 years: A matter of socio-economic status? ...............................................................65

THE YOUNG OLD, VOLUNTEERING AND INFORMAL CARE-GIVING
6 The young old and the political economy of ageing .................................................................86
7 Volunteering and informal care-giving in later life as policy problems ...............98

THE YOUNG OLDS’ ROLE IN WELFARE STATES
8 Summary and discussion .................................................................................................................................118
9 Summary in Dutch........................................................................................................................................134