

VU Research Portal

Settling in a Changing World

Habermehl, D.S.

2011

document version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Link to publication in VU Research Portal

citation for published version (APA)

Habermehl, D. S. (2011). Settling in a Changing World: Villa Development in the Northern Provinces of the Roman Empire. [PhD-Thesis - Research and graduation internal, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam].

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

E-mail address:

vuresearchportal.ub@vu.nl

Preface

The present study is the result of my research, carried out as a PhD-researcher at the Archaeological Centre of the VU University (ACVU) between 2006 and 2010. It is part of a broader research programme titled 'Roman villa landscapes in the north: economy, culture, lifestyles'. This programme was funded by the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO, nr. 360-60-060), for which my gratitude. Furthermore, without the support of a considerable number of people, this study would not have been written. First and foremost I would like to express great gratitude to my promotor prof.dr. Nico Roymans for his support, trust and the good atmosphere of both academic and personal interaction. Special thanks also to dr. Ton Derks, my co-promotor, for always being there for advice and a critical view. Both were part of the villa research group also including myself and my two direct PhD-colleagues: Karen Jeneson and Laura Crowley. Without these latter two the four years of research would not have been so inspiring, fun and unforgettable. One of the things I will always remember is our tour on foot from Tongres to Cologne. Subsequently, I would like to thank my other roommates dr. Stijn Heeren and dr. Philip Verhagen and my colleagues at the archaeological centre and the HBS (Hendrik Brunsting Stichting): dr. Henk Hiddink, dr. Joris Aarts, dr. Jean-Paul Crielaard, dr. Mieke Prent, dr. Antoine Mientjes, Mikko Kriek, dr. Fokke Gerritsen, Julie Van Kerckhove, Cees Koot, Elbrich de Boer, Mara Wesdorp, dr. Maaïke Groot and dr. Wouter Vos for their support and their contribution to the good atmosphere. Thanks also to dr. Laura Kooistra, dr. M. Dodt, Gerard Tichelman, Anouk Veldman, Henkjan Sprokholt, Lourens van der Feijst and dr. Jeremy Taylor for their contribution in the form of discussion, data or figures. Thanks to Bert Brouwenstijn for his work on the many figures and maps in this study, to Jaap Fokkema for his work on the distribution maps and to Leonie Abels for correcting the English. Outside the professional context I would like to thank my parents, dr. Nico Habermehl and Jeannette-Habermehl-Van 't Land, for their great support, interest and love. Last but certainly not least I would like to thank Koen van Leeuwen for his support.

Diederick Habermehl

Juli 2011, Amsterdam.