

VU Research Portal

Sin: against Whom or against What?

Omta, F.F.

2019

document version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Link to publication in VU Research Portal

citation for published version (APA)

Omta, F. F. (2019). Sin: against Whom or against What? An assessment of Barth's and Tillich's perspectives on sin and sanctification in comparison to views of New Age authors. KokBoekencentrum.

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal ?

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

E-mail address:

vuresearchportal.ub@vu.nl

Sin as spiritual self-denial

Are humans inclined by nature to evil as such? To say yes to that sounds quite far from the assertion that 'most people are good'. But even when every one is good, then it is shame if that is not readily apparent. That is why we need a good concept of sin, even though such a concept should address people's strength instead of their weakness.

The offence of sin is not directed primarily at a transcendent Supreme Being, but against what is most powerful and most essential in oneself. This brings us to a non-theistic concept of sin as spiritual self-denial. The new sinner does not 'curse' at heaven but at his internal self. He/she is not a bad person who sins in spectacular ways but someone who suffers from spiritual laziness, indifference ... or a lack of courage. That also produces new forms of holiness such as risking your skin to save your soul. Whistleblowers become bearers of moral leadership.

Fokko Frederik Omta (1956) was born in the Noordoostpolder on a farm. After passing his Gymnasium exam in Emmeloord, he studied theology at the Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam. Upon graduating (1984) he served as a minister in Sexbierum, Slootdorp, and Krabbendam. Since 2008 he has been associated with the Fenixkerk (PKN) in Nieuwe Niedorp and teaches religion at the elementary school. He is married and has three sons.

NUR: 704

ISBN: 978 9043 5336 38

KokBoekencentrum.nl
academic

Fokko Frederik Omta

Sin: against Whom or against What?

Fokko Frederik Omta

Sin: against Whom or against What?

An assessment of Barth's and Tillich's perspectives on sin and sanctification in comparison to views of New Age authors

Fokko Frederik Omta

Sin: against Whom or against What?

An assessment of Barth's and Tillich's perspectives on sin and sanctification in comparison to views of New Age authors

Fokko Frederik Omta

Sin: against Whom or against What?

