Contents

Preface & Acknowledgments V

Contents VII - XIV

Main Introduction XV - XXIV

1. The root of all questions
2. Preliminary questions: The emic-etic distinction Commensurability
3. Motivation and general aim 4. Questions of research 5. Final and specific aim 6. Methodology and route

PART ONE: DEMARCATION AND ARRANGEMENT 1

§ 1. Christian Theology. 1 1.1 Augustine 2
      1.1.1 Cosmology 6
      1.1.2 Hamartiology
      1.1.3 Human Potential 12
   1.2 Schleiermacher 18
      1.2.1 Cosmology 31
      1.2.2 Hamartiology
      1.2.3 Human Potential
   1.3 Conclusions and elements for further attention 25

§ 2. New Age 27
   2.1 The New Age movement and New Age religion 28 2.1.1 Actual appearance and development 31 a. The New Age: from a strict to a wide movement
         b. The New Age movement - sensu lato
         c. Field of attention 2.1.2 Historical roots and input 34
         a. Psychology
         b. Oriental religion
         c. Western esotericism
            i. Main historical development ii. Two fundamental ideas, two consequential characteristics 2.1.3 Methodological agenda for research 43 2.2 Introduction of three original New Age sources 44 2.2.1 New Age cosmologies: different types of holism a. Generative source holism
         b. Universal Interrelatedness 2.2.2 Choice of primary sources 48 a. Some general criteria b. The three sources
   i. Jane Roberts – Seth
   ii. Course in Miracles
   iii. Matthew Fox

PART TWO: PRIMARY SOURCES OF NEW AGE

§ 3. Jane Roberts
3.1 Cosmology
   a. Two ontological priorities
   b. Outer and inner consciousness c. Inner self and the soul
   d. The ultimate source “All That Is” and God
   e. Divine-human relationship 3.2 Hamartiology
   3.2.1 Beliefs, perceptions and evil a. Spiritual ignorance and illusions
      b. The examples of natural and moral evil 3.2.2 Religious evil or sin a. Criticism of (original) sin
      b. Emic assessment of the ego c. Guilt and the human part of the religious relationship
      d. The personal God as the aggrieved object 3.3 Human potential
   a. Natural grace and the inner self
   b. The riddle unsolved 3.4 Inventory of findings
   3.4.1 Four questions
   3.4.2 Four anti-apologetic benchmarks

§ 4. A Course in Miracles
4.1 Cosmology
   a. Formal (ontological) aspect: exclusivity of the mind.
   b. Material ontological aspect: the holistic unity of love/the Sonship
   c. One reality, many illusions d. Reality is changeless 4.2 Hamartology
   a. Natural evil and indestructible reality
      i. Bodily existence;
      ii. Physical sickness
   b. Sin and the illusion of separation
   c. Origin and subject of the belief in sin
   d. Original error
   e. Actual errors
4.3 Human Potential
   a. Your development from self to Self 4.4 Inventory of findings

4.4.1 Four Questions

4.4.2 Four anti-apologetic benchmarks

§ 5. Matthew Fox

5.1 Cosmology

a. Living Cosmology
b. The Word of God – creative energy
c. The Cosmic Christ – cosmic as predicate or as concept of being
d. The relationship God – cosmos: pan-en-theism
e. Cosmic Christ and theological tradition

5.2 Hamartiology – Sin and Evil

a. Natural evil
b. Criticism on the fall/ redemption tradition
c. Criticism on original sin – the doctrine as such
d. Sin according to Fox, original and consequential e. Sin against who?

5.3 Human Potential

a. The Human potential as such – its scope
b. The effectuation of your potential
c. Fox’s struggle with pan-en-theism.

5.4 Inventory of findings

5.4.1 Four Questions

5.4.2 Four anti-apologetic benchmarks

§ 6. Taking stock (1)

6.1 Cosmology

6.1.1 Divine-human unity - question 1

6.1.2 Co-eternity - benchmark a

6.2 Human Potential.

6.2.1 Denial original sin – question 2

6.2.2 Direct gnosis - benchmark b

6.3 Hamartiology – question 3, 4; benchmark c, d

6.3.1 Dualistic or antagonistic opposition

6.3.2 The human person

a. Jane Roberts.
b. A Course in Miracles

i. logical uncertainties ii. psychological

iii. anthropological uncertainties

c. Matthew Fox
d. Conclusion and agenda

6.3.3 The personal God

a. Jane Roberts

b. A Course in Miracles
PART THREE: TWO THEOLOGICAL HALLMARKS - twentieth century

§ 7. Karl Barth
7.1 Cosmology
   a. Eternal election, Creation and the appearance of Evil
   b. The ‘in Christ’ realism
   c. Our being in Christ and in our selves
   d. ‘Creation from nothing’ and the two esoteric characteristics

7.2 Hamartiology
   7.2.1 The formal question: How bad are evil and sin a. The reality and the nature of Nothingness (das Nichtige).
         i. Small ontological standing ii. Evil anti-nature iii. Nothingness in the existence of Christ
      b. The reality and the nature of Sin
         i. Limitation of ontological standing in Christ ii. Enlarging its evil or anti nature
      c. The reality and the nature of ‘Natural Evil?’
         i. Sickness & death as natural ii. Sickness & death as evil.

   7.2.2 The material question regarding sin and sloth a. Forms of Sloth
         i. Ignorance with respect to God;
         ii. Inhumanity to others iii. Dissipation, indiscipline with respect to one self iv. Human care / anxiousness b. The nature and the reality of Sloth i. Nature of sloth ii. Reality or ontological weight
      c. Sloth as act or as fate
         i. Sloth and human bondage ii. Original sin and Christian Freedom iii. Act or fate

7.3 Human Potential – The human self and sanctification 7.3.1 Two dimensions of Sanctification a. Sanctification de iure b. Sanctification de facto

   7.3.2 The Sanctification by Christ a. Disturbance and limitation b. The call to discipleship
      c. The awakening to conversion
         i. An/enhypostatic being of Jesus Christ ii. The S/subject of conversio 210 iii. Two movements forming conversion 215 iv. Intermezzo: Directio Christi, participatio Christi and Operatio Spiritus: genitivi subjectivi

7.3.3 Participation by us 220 a. Works of praise 222
i. criteria
ii. human contribution
b. The dignity of the Cross

7.4 Inventory of findings 229

§ 8. Paul Tillich 233 8.1 Cosmology – ontology 241 8.1.1 Transcendent absolutes: the Unconditional and God 247 a. Religion and its subject matter as unconceivable 250
b. The Unconditional as ground of religio c. Origin of “the Unconditional” – metaphysical a priori d. The Unconditional and God e. Religion speaks through symbols 256

i. Hermeneutic power of symbols ii. The basic religious symbol: God iii. Further or secondary symbols

8.1.2 The unconditional or divine element within all being 260 a. Ultimate concern as the human reflex to the unconditional (mystical a priori) 265
i. Plausibility of unconditional reality and the argument for God ii. Religion as ultimate concern: universally human iii. Religion/religious concern: whatever the content
b. The Protestant Principle 267 i. The protestant principle as sola gratia ii. Unconditional acceptance iii. Unconditionally critical

8.2 Hamartiology 270
8.2.1 The distinction of the essential and existential realm 273 a. The Existentialist point of view
b. The Existentialist protest against essentialism
c. The Existentialist expression 8.2.2 The transition from essence to existence: creation and fall 277 a. Creation: finite freedom and destiny

b. Fall

8.2.3 Estrangement and Sin 285 a. The term estrangement b. Multiple use of estrangement 286 i. as fact and as act, original and actual ii. as religious interpretation of sin 8.2.4 Estrangement and evil 290 a. Nonbeing as related to being

b. The demonic and the divine/holy
c. Anxiety and nonbeing
   i. Anxiety and fear (Angst und Furcht) ii. Anxiety and forms of nonbeing d. Anxiety and evil
   i. The nature and the origin of evil ii. Our having to die
   iii. Two terminological adjustments

. 8.3 Human Potential 8.3.1 The new being in Christ a. The ontological place and status of New Being
      b. The theological substance and religious content of New Being
      c. New Being as a perennial quest 8.3.2 Human potential as essentialization and as participation a. Human potential in an active and passive sense
      b. The passive potential of essentialization c. Human potential as participation
         i. Unity of life
         ii. Potential through participation

8.4 Inventory of findings

§ 9. Taking stock (2) - Some main concepts of personhood 9.1 Is the twofold criticism correct?
   a. Antithesis as runway for participation (Barth)
      i. Creation from nothing ii. Barthian actualism
   b. Mediation (Tillich)
      i. Divine-human relationship: unity in duality ii. Human potential 9.2 Some main characteristics on personhood a. The threefold or Trinitarian personhood of God
   b. Three classic perspectives on the human being or person
      i. Plato
      ii. Locke
      iii. Hume
   c. Modern developments
      i. American Personalism ii. Analytic-philosophical views iii. Theories of person as socio-psycho-physical composite
   d. Divine and human personhood: commensurable concepts?
9.3. The Concept of Spirit and Person by Max Scheler a. Scheler’s position in the anthropological field
   b. The spiritual nature of person c. Psycho-physical indifference
   d. Actuality
   e. Identity of spirit PART FOUR: ASSESSMENT, CONCLUSIONS, PERSPECTIVES

§10. The three structural elements of sin 10.1 The necessity of spiritual opposition - divine-human duality 10.2 The necessity and relevance of identifiable human personhood a. The outer psycho-physical person or ego b. The human spirit-person i. Identification and taking distance ii. Inner autonomy – outer dependency
   c. Personal spirit, actuality and the genesis of sin 10.3 The object of sin: divine spirit or personal God a. Psycho-physical aspect: God has no body or ego of his own i. Representation through symbols ii. Through inspired human agents iii. Through the incarnation of Christ in Jesus
   b. Taking distance - self transcendence c. Actuality: divine potential and identity i. Berkhof and Bonhoeffer ii. Van Gennep and Sölle ..
10.4 Application to the sources, collecting the results a. The human person: where the human and the divine meet
   b. God is Spirit, not every S/spirit is God i. Divinity not primarily person but S/spirit from theism to en-theism ii. Identification of S/spirit iii. Divine Spirit symbolized as God

§11. Sin: a reformulation – gains and losses 11.1 A non-theistic concept of sin a. Spiritual self
   b. The ego-person
   c. Denial of one’s spirit-self - outer-personal laziness 11.2 Gains and losses of a non-theistic concept of sin.
   a. Gain of explaining sin without a God
   b. Loss or limitation of a concept without God 11.3 Clarifying some inconsistencies – sincere pretence

Summary
Samenvatting
Zusammenfassung
Abbreviations
Bibliography
Curriculum Vitae