Personal information

Assistant Professor - Section History of Philosophy - Medieval Philosophy, Arabic and Latin -
Normally I am at the VU two times a week including Thursday.
Appointments : via email

Research

My area of research is metaphysics, particularly emanation, the definition of the First Principle, the doctrine of causality, and the epistemology of Arabic Neoplatonism. I published the first Italian translation of Avicenna's Metaphysics (Bompiani 2002, 2nd ed. 2006) as well as various essays on theological and philosophical thought in the mediaeval Arabic world (Alfarabi, Yahyā ibn 'Adī, Avicenna, al-Ghazali). For Angeli (Neri Pozza 2009), edited by G. Agamben and E. Coccia, I wrote together with Samuela Pagani, the section on Islamic angelology, my main focus being philosophical angelology. My book on Avicenna's concept of emanation has been published in 2011 (Fluxus, Bari). My introductory book about Avicenna's philosophy has been published in 2012. I am currently working on various papers and on a study of the question of the unity of God in Yahyā ibn 'Adī.

Academic History

I studied in Rome: philosophy at the Università di Roma "La Sapienza", and Arabic and Islamic studies at the Pontifical Institute for Arabic and Islamic Studies. I took my degree in the history of mediaeval philosophy, under Alfonso Maierù, with a thesis on the doctrine of separate substances in Avicenna. In 1994 the Florentine Fondazione E. Franceschini awarded this work the prize for the best degree thesis in mediaeval philosophy. I continued to explore mediaeval Arabic philosophical thought, and Avicenna in particular, in Louvain (Louvain-la-Neuve) at the Centre de Philosophie Arabe of the U.C.L. (Catholic University of Louvain) with Yahya Michot (1993-94); in Naples, at the Istituto per gli Studi Storici (Institute for Historical Studies), headed by Gennaro Sasso (1994-95); and at Oxford (once again with Michot, in 1999 and 2000). For various periods between 1990 and 2001 I studied in Tunis and in Damascus (at the former Institut Français d'Études Arabes). After further research, which culminated in my receiving a doctorate with a thesis on the theory of emanation in Avicenna, (at the University of Rome "La Sapienza", from 1995-96 to 1999-2000), I worked on a post-doctoral project at the same university (2000-02) and taught (2003-07) Arabic language and Islamic studies at the University of Bari and the University of Urbino. In 2007 I received the title of Maître de Conférences in Philosophy. From 2007-09 I was a Research Fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation at the Ruhr-Universität in Bochum, where I worked with Gerhard Endress.
